Our Mission

Cougar Racing empowers UH students to develop their project management skills through the one year design and fabrication of a formula-style race car.

We bridge campus and industry through mentorship, shop training, and professional networking.

About Us

Each year, our team designs and manufactures a formula-style race car, which competes against universities from across the world in the Formula SAE International Collegiate Design Series each summer.

The team is tested on overall design, cost, performance, and engineering applications in various events during the competition.

What is FSAE?

Formula SAE is an international student design competition organized by SAE International. Student teams are tasked to design, engineer, build, and test a formula style race car against other collegiate teams. The teams compete in traditional racing events, including autocross, endurance, acceleration, etc. Students also get challenged in their engineering and business skills in the design review and cost events.

These teams are student led and organized. The goal is to provide students with hands-on engineering and management skills to prepare them for their future careers

History

In 1979, The Mini-Indy began at The University of Houston. 5 horsepower B&S engines were used. 13 schools entered and 11 competed that first year.

In 1981, FSAE was created, with the first official event in 1982. In 1984, the University of Houston placed first with a 600cc motor. Today, the competition hosts over 150 teams in North America and 500+ globally.

In 2015, "Cougar Racing" at UH was officially established and returned to competition in 2016, ranking 26th out of 80 teams.

Following the Covid-19 Pandemic, the team was unable to produce another race car before "Faith" in 2025. Since this milestone for the team, we are committed to a one year design cycle, which we completed for the first time in 2026.
